3rd European Climate Change Adaptation Conference

Our Climate Ready Future

Don't miss early registration for ECCA 2017, 'Our Climate Ready Future'. This will be a unique meeting place where the people driving climate adaptation on the ground, from business, civil society and national and local governments, can share ideas and experience with the world's leading researchers and policymakers.

Our vision is to bring people together to discover positive climate adaptation solutions that can strengthen society, revitalise local economies and enhance the environment. The conference will help to set the direction for future research, innovation and practice, and the European Commission will be drawing on the outcomes to help inform the review of the Adaptation Strategy and the Roadmap for Climate Services.

Glasgow is the perfect venue for ECCA 2017, at the heart of a city-region that is putting climate adaptation and climate justice at the core of decision-making. We expect 1000 delegates from around the world to take part in our packed programme, featuring 85 parallel sessions, three plenary sessions, a special Business Day, an Innovation Day, a Ceilidh, a poster drinks reception, and a film screening held jointly with the Glasgow Science Festival.

We offer a choice of ten inspiring excursions that showcase a range of innovative local adaptation projects, and offer a unique opportunity to meet some of the local communities that are working together to combat climate change. These include visits to a Scotch Malt Whisky distillery, the beautiful Seven Lochs wetland park, Stirling Castle, the Clyde Gateway and the city of Edinburgh – a UNESCO World Heritage site. Places are limited so please register early to secure your choice.

Early registration fees are fixed at 2015 levels, so sign up now to get the lowest price. We look forward to welcoming you to Glasgow for ECCA 2017!
