

Getting your business climate ready at the ECCA Business and Innovation Days Glasgow, 6th & 7th June 2017

Climate change presents a wide range of serious risks for business. At the same time, it also provides an array of opportunities for companies, large and small, to drive forward innovative and successful products and services.

On Tuesday 6th June 2017, The ECCA Business Day will provide a unique setting to learn about what it takes to prepare business for a changing climate. Through engaging, interactive panel and parallel sessions, we will jointly explore critical questions such as:

- ◆ What is the business case for climate readiness?
- ◆ What are the business risks of climate change I need to be aware of?
- ◆ What are existing solutions in frontrunner sectors, e.g. infrastructure & water, bio-economy, health, risk management & consulting?
- ◆ What is the market demand, and what support is available - from local to EU level - including financing?

On Wednesday 7th June 2017, the ECCA Business Day will be followed by an Innovation Day, creating opportunities for business, from micro- to multi-nationals, to join with researchers, students and others in tackling the adaptation challenges of cities and local governments.
